

PRESS RELEASE

For Immediate Release
Norfolk, Conn., June 19, 2009—

WHO AM I AND WHAT DO I EAT?

Get the answers on Thursday, July 9, when David Wagner, author of “Caterpillars of Eastern North America” and professor of ecology and evolutionary biology at the University of Connecticut, will give a slide show and talk on local caterpillars, their myriad disguises and defenses, and some of their favorite eating places. The talk, sponsored by the Norfolk Conservation Commission, starts at 7:30 p.m. in the Norfolk, Conn., town hall, 19 Maple Avenue. Crawl-ins welcome!

Editor’s contacts: Shelley Harms,
Sue Frisch, suefrisch@mindspring.com, 860-542-6076

Photo credit: Katherine Griswold